ALIENS Must

A small group of robo runners and their robots live on the hidden planet of Roboton in a far off galaxy.

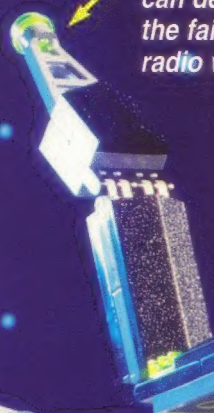

In their secret camp, this brave team trains to defend the universe from aliens.

This hard-working team also helps other explorers colonize the uncharted reaches of space. Powered by the secret, powerful robo disks, these supercharged robots are the guardians of the galaxies.

Robo Disk - the secret power source

Sensitive tail can detect even the faintest alien radio waves.

#2152 ROBO RAPTOR

It's muzzle sniffs out any atmosphere for aliens and special grabber claws can hold on to anything. The Raptor's moving arms, tail, and head allow this mobile robot to explore every inch of a planet.

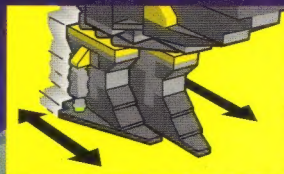

ROGER THAT, I'M ON MY WAY!

Reckon with ROBOFORCE

For quick trips, his tail launches a solar-powered ship into space.

#2154 ROBO MASTER

Nothing gets past Robo Master with its quick grabber claw and laser. Holograms on its tail and feet track messages throughout a galaxy.

CHIP NEBULA

Chip is now the universe's best robo runner. What's that? A robo runner is a certified robot operator. Mercury is one of Chip's favorite places in space because he can see two sunrises and sunsets each day on that small planet. Favorite TV show: Third Rock from the Sun Favorite Football Team: Toronto Robo Raptors

#2151 ROBO RAIDER

It walks, it grabs. And when it's not mining for minerals with its high-powered drill, Robo Raider patrols the planets. For quick getaways, Robo Raider's head transforms into a mini space plane!

Attach the spy camera, put a robo runner behind the controls and you're ready for your first mission!

Use pieces from your LEGO collection to build the Robo Spy or you can find all the pieces you need in #2152 Robo Raptor.

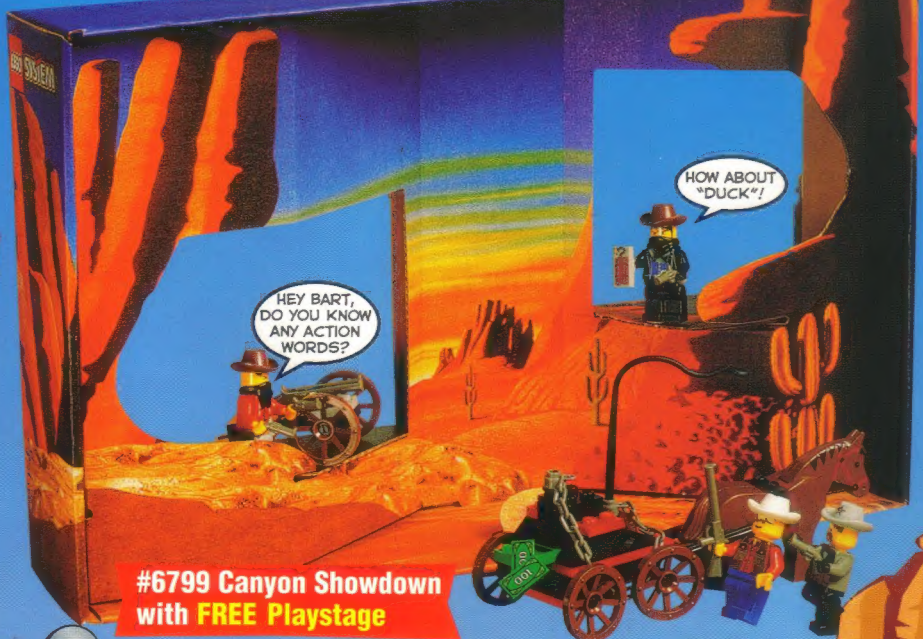

Act out Wild West Adventures on the Canyon Playstage

TWO COOL SETS AND A FREE PLAYSTAGE!

Where's the perfect place to act out awesome Wild West Adventures — on the FREE stage that comes with Canyon Showdown! First, build a horse-drawn wagon to carry the safe, guarded by Sheriff West and his deputy. But watch out for Black Bart and Flatfoot Thompson! They're hiding in the rocks on the hill with the weapons cart you just built — waiting for just the right moment to steal the safe with all the money.

Next, set up your models on the stage and act out some awesome Wild West action! To help get you started, use the word lists provided to fill in the blanks in the story below: write in an action, description, place, object or name — even think up your own words. Try not to read the story before you fill in the blanks. When you finish, act out the story on the play stage. Remember, the wackier the story, the better.

#6799 Canyon Showdown with FREE Playstage

LET'S GET OUT OF HERE!

Flatfoot Thompson and Black Bart decided to steal the _____ (object) from the stagecoach. The two outlaws _____ (action) behind the large, _____ (description) _____ (object) and waited for the stage.

When the stage rolled through the canyon, the outlaws were surprised to see _____ (name) driving the team. Then he fired his _____ (object) in the air. "Give us all your loot before I get really _____ (description)," he said. The driver gave Flatfoot the money and the bandits _____ (action) to their hideout.

Sheriff West _____ (action) to the canyon and found the burgled stage. He asked _____ (name) to saddle up and help him round up the bad guys. The good guys trailed the outlaws to an old _____ (description) cabin.

One of the bandits _____ (action) out the door, and the Sheriff threw his _____ (object) around him. Flatfoot was still inside so the Sheriff _____ (action) through the window and found Flatfoot hiding in _____ (place). "You have two choices, Flatfoot," the Sheriff told the outlaw. "You can go to _____ (place) and learn how to be good or I'll throw you in _____ (place)."

Flatfoot replied, "No, don't send me there. I'll be good."

The Sheriff _____ (action) back to town with the outlaws, and he said, "I'm ready for a vacation.

While I'm gone, deputy _____ (name) is in charge."

ROBO-LOG 907-0800

I shouted back to him, "Not if I have anything to say about it. I want you out of my galaxy, Twister!" So I launched a few laser warning blasts from #2154 Robo Master into the atmosphere. The time machine twisted into space, but I knew that we hadn't seen the last of Tony Twister.

Just then, an emergency hologram appeared from Robo Raptor. They needed help—and fast! Tony Twister was on Venus. I launched my space plane with Robo Master's tail and headed toward Venus.

With its muzzle filter, Robo Raptor was analyzing Venus's unfriendly atmosphere. Between the heat and pressure, (which is like being 3,000 feet under water), spacecraft last about two hours before vaporizing. Unless you're a super strong robot! According to Robo Raptor, Twister couldn't stand the 900 degree heat and headed toward Mars.

SUBJECT: TIME TWISTERS INVADE

ROBO-LOG 907-0800

Greetings! My name is Chip Nebula. I'm a robot runner. There are millions of galaxies in the universe, and it's our job to help colonize them and protect them from aliens. My RoboForce team was working a small solar system in the Milky Way Galaxy with our four 'bots: Robo Raider, Robo Raptor, Robo Stalker, and Robo Master.

I flew my space plane on to a large moon. Robo Master was there helping some earthlings from the Australian Outback build a space colony. Suddenly there was a blinding light. Then this weird vehicle, looking like a huge bat, emerged. "This is Tony Twister of the Time Twisters. Surrender your robot and its robo disks. For I will reprogram your robot and rule the galaxy."

I will reprogram your robot and rule the galaxy.
Ha! Ha! Ha!

SUBJECT: STALKED ON SATURN

ROBO-LOG

I turned around and cruised to Mars, the red planet. Despite signs of life discovered in the late 20th century, we still haven't found any Martians. But it does have a valley called Valles Marineris that is more than 3,000 miles long. It is so long that one end is in daylight while it's night at the other end. Mars also has the largest volcano in the solar system. Olympus Mons is 15 miles tall, three times higher than Mt. Everest on Earth.

I found Robo Raider, our mining expert, in the asteroid belt between Mars and Jupiter. With his drill, Robo Raider was mining metals for Earth's new colony. And he was hopping mad. Tony Twister had tried to robonap him. Robo Raider cut a hole in the bat craft and almost grabbed Twister, but the time machine vanished. Twister was lucky. Robo Raider's the fastest drill in the universe. I've seen him dig out aliens hiding underground like a dog after a bone.

QUICK,
GET HIM ROBO
STALKER!

I guessed that Twister was heading toward Saturn. I fired up the warp drive and as I neared Saturn, I saw Robo Stalker skating on Saturn's rings. They are made of lumps of ice and space dust, ranging in size from sugar grains to train cars. Saturn is made mostly out of hydrogen and helium gases. If you could put it in a gigantic ocean, it would float.

Robo Stalker is our team's master builder. While building an alien trap in the rings, his chest's heat sensor picked up an alien presence. He rolled over to investigate and came face-to-face with Twister on his time machine. Before Robo Stalker could spring his trap, the time machine dematerialized. But Twister left us a message: "We're warping out of here, but we'll be back for those disks someday."

I laughed and said to myself, "And when you do, Twister, the Roboforce team will be waiting."

MR. TWISTER IS DEMATERIALIZING

I'LL BE

ROBO STALKER IS ROBO COOL

With its rolling wheels and flying head, this gigantic guardian of the galaxy gets a big 9 on Sam's LEGO scale of 1 to 10

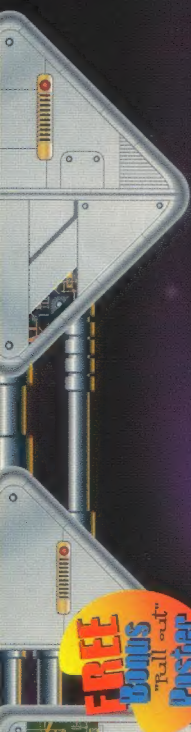

"I liked the flying head the most. The robot's ears flap up and down to make the head fly. I made sure it had lasers to make it really cool."

Sam put the robo disks in the secret compartments to power up the robot. He also used the screen on the robot's chest to help track the cruising space plane.

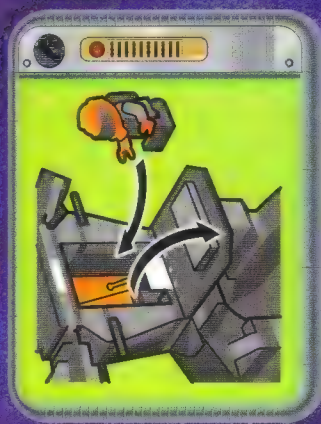

SOMETIMES THE BIG GUY LOSES HIS HEAD. BUT DON'T WORRY. IT'S JUST A SLICK SPACE CRUISER.

Shark Attack
Limited Edition!
Available now at your local toy store!

Hey, Club Members it's me, Diver Dan. Last summer my buddy, Scuba Sandy, and I were filming an underwater show off the coast of Australia. Sandy was buzzing around in our mini sub and I was filming a basking shark. That's one of those huge gray sharks.

Diver Dan

Well, Sandy wasn't looking where she was going, and that big ol' basker had its mouth wide open. Sandy and the sub almost got swallowed up. Basking sharks always swim with their mouths open to catch food. They swallow plankton and can filter over 250,000 gallons of water out through their gills in one hour!

Scuba Sandy

Next, a weird shadow floated over me. I hid behind some rocks because it was a 20 foot sawfish. They can be dangerous and all I had was my camera. A sawfish is similar to a shark, but it has a saw that is part of its nose. The sawfish spotted a school of fish and went after it, using its saw like a combination knife and fork. I was getting a close-up photo when I realized a great white shark was swimming right at me!

A great white can swallow a human whole, so I kicked away from this monster, but he glided after me. All I could do was try to scare it away! I let some air out of my mouthpiece and the bubbles floated around me, confusing the shark. The shark backed off and then came at me again. Sandy charged in between us with the sub, and the great white took off for an easier meal. I climbed into the sub, and we beat it out of there!
